FINDINGS, CONCLUSIONS, AND RECOMMENDATION

Pursuant to the provisions of 28 U.S.C. § 636(b) and an Order of the Court, this case has been referred to the United States Magistrate Judge for findings, conclusions, and recommendation.

I. BACKGROUND

Petitioner, an inmate currently incarcerated in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice - Correctional Institutions Division (TDCJ-CID), filed a petition for writ of habeas corpus pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2254. The respondent is Rick Thaler, Director of TDCJ-CID.

On March 28, 1997, after having pled not guilty, petitioner was convicted by a jury of capital murder in Cause No. F96-52771. (Petition (Pet.) at 2). He was sentenced to life imprisonment. Id. Petitioner filed an appeal challenging the sufficiency of the evidence and the admissibility of his statement to the police. The Eleventh District Court of Appeals affirmed petitioner's conviction in a published opinion on September 23, 1999. Davila v. State, 4 S.W.3d 844 (Tex. App. – Eastland, 1999, no pet.). No petition for discretionary review was filed.

Almost ten years later, on August 19, 2009, petitioner filed his state application for writ of habeas corpus in which he raised as issues the sufficiency of the evidence and admissibility of his statement. (Pet. at 3; see www.dallascounty.org, search petitioner's criminal history). On October 21, 2009, the Court of Criminal Appeals denied the application without a written order. (Id. at 4). See Ex parte Davila, WR-72,745-01 (Tex. Crim. App. Oct. 21, 2009).

Petitioner filed his federal petition on January 27, 2010. (Pet. at 9).¹

II. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

A. Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996

Congress enacted the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996 (AEDPA), Pub. L. 104-132, 110 Stat. 1217, on April 24, 1996. Title I of the Act applies to all federal petitions for habeas corpus filed on or after its effective date. Lindh v. Murphy, 521 U.S. 320, 326 (1997). Because petitioner filed the instant petition after its effective date, the Act applies to his petition.

Title I of the Act substantially changed the way federal courts handle habeas corpus actions. One of the major changes is a one-year statute of limitations. See 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(1). The one-year period is calculated from the latest of either (A) the date on which the judgment of conviction became final; (B) the date on which an impediment to filing an application created by State action in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States is removed, if the applicant was prevented from filing by such State action; (C) the date on which the Supreme Court initially recognizes a new constitutional right and makes the right retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review; or (D) the date on which the facts supporting the claim became known or could have become known through the exercise of due diligence. See id. § 2244(d)(1)(A)-(D).

Petitioner has alleged no state-created impediment under subparagraph (B) that prevented him from filing his federal petition or any new constitutional right under subparagraph (C). The one-year statute of limitations is therefore calculated from the latest of (A) the date petitioner's conviction became final or (D) the date on which he knew or should have known with the exercise of due diligence the facts supporting his claims.

With regard to subparagraph (D), the facts supporting petitioner's claims became known or could have become known prior to the date petitioner's state judgment of conviction became final in 1999. Because petitioner filed his petition more than one year after his conviction became final, a literal application of § 2244(d)(1) renders his January 27, 2010, filing untimely.

B. Tolling

Section 2244 mandates that "[t]he time during which a properly filed application for State post-conviction or other collateral review with respect to the pertinent judgment or claim is pending shall not be counted toward any period of limitation under this subsection." 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(2) (emphasis added). The one-year limitations period for petitioner to file a federal petition concerning his conviction ended in 2000, many years before he filed his state habeas application in 2009. Accordingly, his state application did not toll the limitations period. Therefore, the statutory tolling provision does not save the his federal petition

Nevertheless, the AEDPA's one-year statutory deadline is not a jurisdictional bar and can, in appropriate exceptional circumstances, be equitably tolled. Davis v. Johnson, 158 F.3d 806, 810-11 (5th Cir. 1998). The federal courts may equitably toll the limitations period of 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(1) in "rare and exceptional circumstances." Felder v. Johnson, 204 F.3d 168, 170-71 (5th Cir. 2000). "Equitable tolling applies principally where [one party] is actively misled by the [other party] about the cause of action or is prevented in some extraordinary way from asserting his rights."

See Coleman v. Johnson, 184 F.3d 398, 402 (5th Cir. 1999) (quoting Rashidi v. American President Lines, 96 F.3d 124, 128 (5th Cir. 1996)). “The doctrine of equitable tolling preserves a [party’s] claims when strict application of the statute of limitations would be inequitable.” Davis, 158 F.3d at 810 (quoting Lambert v. United States, 44 F.3d 296, 298 (5th Cir. 1995)). A petitioner “is not entitled to equitable tolling”, however, unless he “diligently pursue[s] his § 2254 relief.” Coleman, 184 F.3d at 403. “[S]uch tolling is available only when the petitioner meets the high hurdle of showing (1) extraordinary circumstances (2) beyond his control (3) that made it impossible to file his petition on time.” Henderson v. Johnson, 1 F. Supp. 2d 650, 654 (N.D. Tex. 1998). Petitioner has the burden to show that he is entitled to equitable tolling. Phillips v. Donnelly, 223 F.3d 797, 797 (5th Cir. 2000) (per curiam). Courts must examine each case in order to determine whether there are sufficient exceptional circumstances present that warrant equitable tolling. Fisher v. Johnson, 174 F.3d 710, 713 (5th Cir. 1999). The Fifth Circuit has also stated that when a prisoner contends that his ability to file a federal habeas petition has been affected by a state proceeding, the court should look at the facts to determine whether equitable tolling is warranted. Coleman v. Johnson, 184 F.3d 398, 402 (5th Cir. 1999).

Here, petitioner presented no argument or evidence that he was prevented from filing either his state writ or his federal petition earlier. He has therefore failed to meet his burden to show that he is entitled to any equitable tolling of the federal statute of limitations, and his federal petition is barred by the statute of limitations.

III. RECOMMENDATION

The Court should find the petition for habeas corpus relief barred by the statute of limitations and DENY it with prejudice.

SO RECOMMENDED on this 2nd day of February, 2010.

A copy of these findings, conclusions and recommendation shall be served on all parties in the manner provided by law. Any party who objects to any part of these findings, conclusions and recommendation must file specific written objections within 14 days after being served with a copy. See 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1); Fed.
